John Guest, a Reliance Worldwide Corporation (RWC) brand since 2018, has been a leader in tubing, plumbing and potable and soft water accessories for original equipment manufacturers (OEMs) for decades. According to John Guest Director of Marketing Maribel Pagan, John Guest polypropylene fittings and connectors help boat manufacturers simplify their connection methods and improve their productivity by eliminating the need to crimp and solder pipes.

“It’s crucial for yachts and other sea craft to have dependable fluid systems and reliable connections,” said Pagan. “Our time-tested fittings ensure an easier work environment in confined places like marine vessels, reducing installation time by about 40 percent compared to traditional connection methods. IBEX is a great opportunity for North American customers to see our expanded product offerings for niche builders and original equipment manufacturers looking for reliable fluid system solutions.”

John Guest has an array of connectors in a variety of sizes and configurations for potable water and pneumatic applications; including John Guest polypropylene fittings, which offer a quick and efficient method of securing connections and are more chemically resistant for use in a wide variety of original equipment; and John Guest Speedfit male and elbow connectors, which twist and lock into place, providing reliable, solder-free connections for plastic and copper pipe.
