

Ship Shape TV Explores Infinity's New Frontier: Tundra

Following the announcement of their new Tundra Flooring, Infinity Luxury Woven Vinyl was recently featured on an episode of the informative and entertaining Marine DIY series, Ship Shape TV. The infamous host John Greviskis explores the collaboration between Infinity and Lowe Boats on the new fish boat specific woven floor concept. John was on-site at the Lake of the Ozarks, Missouri to test out the Lowe Fish & Ski 1610.

In previewing Infinity's Tundra fish boat flooring, Ship Shape TV Host John Greviskis said, "Infinity is going to start a trend here", and with millions of viewers each week, John knows his stuff. While Lowe Boats is the first in the marine industry to switch to the new Tundra flooring, Ben Cast, President of Lowe Boats, is sure that they've made the right choice.

To make sure their flooring stood out from the rest, Infinity added the following characteristics to their product:

- A unique, featherweight backing that provides a flexibility property that is easily adhered with a simple, two-part glue.
- Antimicrobial, stain, and soil resistant properties.
- Style and durability that every boater needs.

For more Ship Shape TV episodes featuring Infinity Luxury Woven Vinyl, visit our YouTube page or stay in the know through our blog. Check out the video here!