Vaber Industriale at IBEX 2026: Seeking U.S. Distribution Partners

Italian manufacturer to present its marine range in Tampa and meet potential commercial partners for the U.S. market.

Turin, Italy - September 24, 2026. Vaber Industriale S.p.A., the Italian manufacturer of professional adhesives, sealants and composite-processing solutions, will exhibit at IBEX 2026 in Tampa, Florida, from October 6-8 at Booth #2-308. The company will use the show to meet qualified U.S. distributors and commercial partners interested in developing the Vaber brand in the American marine market.

Founded in Turin in 1957, Vaber has built its expertise around bonding, sealing, composite processing and professional maintenance solutions for demanding industrial applications. As the company approaches its 70th anniversary, IBEX represents an important step in expanding its international commercial presence and identifying partners with strong knowledge of the U.S. marine sector.

At the show, Vaber will focus on its own marine portfolio, including polyurethane and SMP bonding and sealing solutions, deck-caulking products, composite-process consumables, lay-up adhesives, cable and piping fastening solutions, and specialty maintenance products. The objective is to offer distributors a broad, technically focused range serving boatbuilders, refit yards, composite manufacturers and professional service networks.

"IBEX is an ideal opportunity to meet potential partners directly and understand how Vaber can best support the U.S. market," said the company management. "We are looking for distributors that combine technical competence, market coverage and a long-term approach to brand development."

Vaber's Co-Owners and Co-CEOs, Floris Somers and Marco Corcione, will be present at IBEX and available for meetings with companies interested in distribution opportunities, product positioning, samples and technical evaluation.
