

LIVEWELL LID VIEWPORT

Ocoee, FL – September 25, 2022 - The bass fishing community takes the survival of their catch very seriously. Anglers have an interest in protecting the health of fish while transporting them in their live wells. Teak Isle is excited to introduce a new Livewell Viewport allowing for a quick glance at your catch while fishing.

The new patent-pending viewport has a special coating designed to reduce condensation and fogging of the window. It's made with specially formulated acrylic designed to block up to 50% of heat-causing radiation from the sun and has air vents to help remove harmful metabolic gases. The viewport can be mounted in an existing lid making it a great retrofit project for existing boats, or custom sized and integrated as a standard upgrade part for OEM boat production. Teak Isle's President, Pat Brown said, "With the advantages offered by our Livewell Viewports, they will soon become a must-have standard feature on the tournament circuit."

The time saved with Teak Isle's new transparent Livewell Viewport can be the difference between placing or not in a tournament by allowing for extra casts and assuring live fish at weigh-in. Taking extra care of the fish that have been caught helps to protect this natural resource by bettering the chances for a successful catch and release.
